We are pleased to announce the R. H. Burtner hybrids now available and predict a great future for many of his varieties which he has chosen to introduce later. One of the outstanding qualities in his introductions is their habit of staying open very late in the evening, after most other varieties have closed, which makes them ideal for using in arrangements. Another quality is their ability to take the hot sun. Mr. Burtner is very modest in his descriptions and prefers not to overrate them.

The supply on a few varieties is still limited.
